

Machine learning is a field of computer science that gives computers the ability to learn without being explicitly programmed. It focuses on algorithms that improve automatically through

The Earth revolves around the Sun once every 365.25 days, which defines a year. This motion is responsible for the changing seasons and the variation in daylight hours.

Python is a high-level programming language that emphasizes code readability. It is widely used for web development, data analysis, artificial intelligence, and scientific computing.

Climate change refers to long-term alterations in temperature, precipitation, and weather patterns. Human activities such as burning fossil fuels contribute significantly to this phenomenon.

Blockchain technology is a decentralized ledger that records transactions securely. It enables applications like cryptocurrencies, smart contracts, and supply chain tracking.